THE OLD STORY

If it were worth anyone's while to collate the nformation which must be in the hands or bond of every merchant in Shanghai, an amusing nook might be written, entitled "the Adventures f a Transit Pass." Nearly every one must have some experience to relate; and the record of of ingentity, exactions, and evasion would be invaluable to the student of human nature. The Chinese are admitted to be wonderfully subtle maurists; and in no pluse of our relations with them have they developed this quality more highly, than in their efforts to neutralise the transit pass system. We buve before referred as to one of the most remarkable blunders of which . Government could be guilty, to the squeezes cvied on the canal between Shanghai and Hangchow, which have the effect of driving a bale of shirtings, destined for the latter market, round by way of Ningpo, instead of permitting it to follow the straight and easy route. A fresh instance of these squeezes has been just brought to our notice, which would contribute two excellent pugus to the book we have A foreign merchant here, determined to try to base nail rod iron along the direct route

instead of sending it round by Ningpo. The Chinese warned him that it would be impossible; that the transit pass would not be recognised and that the iron would be refused admission into the city, unless it paid a local tax, amounting to two or three times the amount of the transit duty. However, the attempt was made: a small lot of iron was purchased, and a transit pass procured—and what the Chinese had predicted, came exactly to pass. The iron was stopped, and the shroff in charge brought t back to Shanghai. An appeal was made to H.B.M., Consul, who communicated with the l'aotai, and elicited an assurance that ho tax whatever had been deman ed at Hannebow; but that the inferiority of the iron had caused its rejection in the market. The excuse was so amusing as almost to disarm announce; it is just one of those unanswerable partitudes in which the Chinese excel—glaringly about, yet so ingenious that one hardly knows how to assail it. Nothing, in fact, but flat continuiction will meet it; and that is impolite, and utterly neeless. The merchant submitted, and made another shipment, taking care, this time, that the iron should be of especially good quality. A. different shroff was sent in charge—with the same result. Again, the transit pass was ignored. and the iron was refused admittance into Hangchow, unless the local dues were paid. And again, as the object was not to sell the iron at any price, but to affirm the principle of the a per cent, transit due, the abroff retreated. But instead of returning direct to Shanghai, he made, in obedience to instructions, another essay, in the direction of Hoochow-with the same result. The transit pass was ignored. A charge of 12,000 cash was levied and paid; an official natice being shown to the shroff, signed he declares by the Viceroy, to the effect that transit passes would, in future, be disregarded. An appeal was again made to H.B.M. Consul. who sent in the receipt for the 12.000 cash to the Tuotar, and asked for repayment. But His Excellency's position, this time, was clear as" youd the place for which it is issued; and a refund was out of the cuestion. So the iron did not get into Hangchow; the owner could not recover the squeeze at Hoochow; and the Barrier officials triumph. There is really something so Indigrous, in the ingenuity of the evasion, that one almost forgets annovance at the infraction of right. But the broad fact remains, that a consignment of foreign-owned iron, protected by a transit pass, was twice refused admission into Hangchow, and redress was twice avoided by a subterfuge. Probably the Shanghai Taotai is not to blame in the in the matter, in so far that he cannot confrol the action of the Hangebow Customs officers. His power will only come into play, when iron consigned to Hangehow has entered Hangehow. has paid an illegal tax; and when repayment of this tax is demanded. We hope the consignor. this clear ground.

PRONUNCIATION. IL ANGLO-ORINESE DICTIONARY, by the Rev. W. LOBSCHEID, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong.

MOR scope and practical service this Work CO to NEW YORK and other Eastern Cities, stands unrivalled. All the new words contracted through at low rates. which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given, the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to [1914 make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vatent spaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications. The scope of the work is so great, and its utilitarian purposes so complete, that a resuperior quality, and only requires age to bring a ceedings of the NAVAL COURT OF ference to its pages enables a person who it up fine Old Jamaica Rum. Extracts. Adventures of a California JEREKY Monday Mr. Houley's tolegraph oable, which has been amainfactured in hostility to that of the Jersey and Guaragey Telegraph Commany, bus been had in spite of the problettion of the Government, and in definice of the armed forces instructed to prevent it. It may be remembered that early in April last the screw steamer. Caroline, with Mr. Henley's cable on board, shore and at Greve-de-Lecq. A guard of soldiers, under orders from the Lieutenant-Govermor, however, prohibited the contemplated lauding, and the Caroline went round to St. Helior's barbour. There she has remained ever since, at an expense to the owner, it is estimated, arrived off the island with a view to lay the of some £50 a week. On Sa'urday evening last, after people had been wondering why the scoumer Carolina remained many weeks in harbour to no apparent purpose, it was rumoured that she had received orders to sail for England, and a crowl assembled on the pier to see her off. Oheers, mostly of the ironical kind, were exchanged between the crew and the speciators, and discharges of musketry gave delet to the departure. The departure was at dusk, and, it would appear," for a good reason. Instead of sailing for an English, port, as announced, the Carolins must bave altered her course and betaken herself to another part of the island. At half-past 5 on Sunday morning, when she ought to have TO. I, Pechili Torrace, Elgia Street, Apply reached her English destination, she was seen steaming out of the remote little inlet of Greve-au-Lancon. Thence she was seen to take the direction of Guernsey. Meanwhile, her intentions had been suspected by the military steamship Dasher keeping the necessary lookout at sea. Somehow the Caroline evaded all precautions. After she was seen leaving Greve- Buth Rooms, Outhouses, &c. Apply to au Lancon, at balf past 5 on Sunday morning, she was mut at 7 o'clock by the Weymouth and Channel Islands' packet, persons on board which suspected that she was then laying the cable. To night the information is positive that the cable is laid. The shore end, however, has not been connected on the beach, which has not been disturbed. It is supposed that the senward shore end of the old cable, dong since

-Times, Friday, June 1 th.

(Saturdan Review.) After all, is the world so very absurd in its love of pretty women? Is women as very city. Apply to ridiculous in her chase after beauty? A protty woman is doing woman's work in the world, not | making speeches nor matting puddings, but making life sunnier and more beautiful. Her nim from very childhood is to be be autiful. Even LIME HOUSE and OFFICES, No. 1, Goug as a school-giff she notes the progress of her . Street, lately occupied by Messrs. A. Wir charms, the deepening colour of her hair, the ginson & Co. Apply to growing symmetry of her arm, the ripening contour of her cheek. We watch with silent interest the mysterious reveries of the maiden; she is dreaming of a coming beauty, and panting for the glories of eighteen. Insensibly she becomes an artist, her room a studio, her glass an academy. The hours work with her, but she works with the hours. What silent musings before her muror, what dreams, what discoveries, what disappointments, what careful gleaning of experience, what sudden flushes of invention The joy of her toilet is the joy of Raffaelle over his curvas, of Michael Angelo before his marble She is creating beauty in the silence and the She is creating beauty in the silence and the SEVERAL Strong commodious GODOWNS, loneliness of her chamber. Care ploughs its very conveniently situated on Marine Lot lines across her brow; motherhood destroys No. 63, between Messrs, John Burd & Co.'s the clastic lightness of her form; the bloom of premises and Messrs. Gibs. Livingston & Added to 31st December, 1865 ... 103,146 her cheek, the quick flash of her eye, fade and Co.'s Wharf. vanish as the years go by. But woman is still true to lier ideal. She won't know when the is beaten, and she manages to steal fresh victories even in her defeat. She invents new conceptions of womanly grace; she rallies at thirty, and fronts us with the beauty of womanhood; she makes a last stand at sixty artist who exhibits year after year, but whose storage in first class GRANITE GODOWNS style ranges from the girlish innocence of a on moderate terms. Fra Angelico to the severe matronage of a Zurbaran. Perhaps we enjoy beauty less than we might from the absurd connexion which men bave established between enjoyment, of it and love. We fancy it impossible to care much shout a pretty face unless we can hangit in our own gallery. "What care I how fair she be, so she is not fair to me!". It is perhaps truer to say that nine-tenths of our enjoyment of beauty disappears with possession. The lover dwells on his mistress's face till he loses all sense of the world of beauty without it. He is like the care for the larger range of art. The real Water laid on. way of enjoying pretty women would be Also, Croquet gronever to fall in love with a pretty woman garden. Apply to at all. The true joys of life are its un conscious joys, the pleasure we derive from laughter of children, from the landscape that we drive dreamily through, from the music which we have not listened to. And so the truest enjoyment of beauty lies, not in the observation or analysis of this face or that, but in the sense of pretty forms and pretty faces about one. The joy of variety, the pleasure of the inexhaustible range of the beautiful, cumes to the admirer of pretty women, never to the lover of pretty women. We are not quarrel-ling with the instinct which leads us through pretty faces into paths of domestic peace. It is often necessary to restrict one's sphere of enjoyment; and if one is absolutely obliged to marry, one had far better marry a pretty wife than an ugly one. The refinement which the student of art gains from nonstant contact with beauty of colour and form every one gains in some degree from daily contact with the beautiful in flesh and blood. Woman-is-the art of home, the Giorgione who e builliancy flashes through the quiet parsonage, the Perugino whose grace tempers the roughness of every day, the Rubens whose largeness and about dance flings a glow of comfort and case over the most uncenial treer. Life becomes more barmonious, it bears with a keener pulse of enjoyment, in the presence of pretty women. After all, a charming little figure, a piquant little face, is the best remedy for half the ills of existence, its worries, its vexations, its dulness, its disappointments. And even in the larger and more placed types of beauty, if there is a tinge of stupidity, there is at any rate au atmosphere of repose, a genial influence moulding our social converse and habits into gentler shapes. It is amusing to see how the prettiness of woman tells on liver dress, how the order and propriety of her dress tell on the folds, in the pose of her languar, in the gay start of her excitement, one feels the softening, barmonizing influence of her last look in the glass. She may be gay or sorrowful. or quiet or energetic, but she must be protty. Beauty exercises an imperceptible compulsion over her, which moulds her whole life into graceful and barmonious forms. Her dress rises out, of the mere clothing of man intoregions of science, of poetry, of art. A thurs: sand considerations of taste, barmonies of colour, contrasts, correspondencies, delicate adjustments of light and stade, dictate the choice of a shawl or the tfut of a glove. And as pret-tiness tells on dress, it tells on the home Flowers, pictures, the gay notes of a songta the coziest of conches, gorreous hues of lading tapestry, glasswork of Murano, a hundred exquisite somethings and nothings are the natural setting of pretty women.
